

YOUNG TELLER'S DESIRE TO SAVE CAUSE FOR RUIN

Stockwell, Kansas City Embezzler,
Admits That He Stole $1700 and Placed It to His Credit in Other Banks—Gives It Up.

SPENT NO MONEY ON PONIES OR GAMBLING

Investigation Shows That Son of Hackdriver, Who Advanced to Position of Trust and Then Fell,
Led Life of Model Man.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10.—Confronted by the president and several directors of the bank, and E. P. Moxey, expert accountant, C. Leslie Stockwell, mail teller in the New England National Bank, has confessed to the theft of $1700 of the bank's money.

This amount, he admitted, he had deposited in three other banks to his credit. After having confessed, Stockwell signed three checks in favor of the New England National, drawn on the institutions where he had kept accounts, and within an hour had been arraigned before United States Commissioner Nuckolls and was a prisoner in the county jail. His bond was placed at $1000.

According to J. F. Downing, president of the bank, Stockwell received large amounts of mutilated currency from country banks and also much exchange from the same sources. Some time ago T. P. Moxey, the expert accountant who is employed frequently to go over the books, discovered that young Stockwell had been "swelling" the exchange charges in nearly all transactions so that it was possible for him to put in his own pocket $10 or more each day.

Lives a Clean Life.
Mr. Downing started an investigation into the life and habits of his mail teller and learned, much to his surprise, that he had lived a clean life, but also that he had three bank accounts, each of them too large for a young man whose salary was $75 a month.

The investigation was finished yesterday noon and in the afternoon Stockwell was called into the presence of the president of the bank. At first he denied that he had stolen any money at all, but finally confessed.

"I began saving up," said he to the president and directors, "with the idea of getting $1000, which I intended to return to the bank to show how it was possible for a man to steal from it in my position. When I got $1000 I thought I'd make it twice that sum. I have taken $1750—no more."

Stockwell's explanation is said to be the most remarkable ever listened to as an excuse for embezzlement.

Spoils Bright Career.
"If the young man had gambled, gone to the races, had a sweetheart or done any of the many foolish things that young men may do," said President Downing, "I might find it in my heart to excuse his offense. But here is a man who steals and saves what he has taken. It is too bad, right at the beginning of his career. There was not a clerk in the bank who was quicker or more accurate than Stockwell."

Stockwell is only about 21 years old. He is a son of Charles W. Stockwell, a hack driver. After he had been graduated from High School, he became a messenger for the New England National Bank. He had no bad habits, was always attentive to duty and soon gained the confidence of his employers. A year or so ago he was made mail teller, in which position he handled practically all the bank's letters.

HIDING ON SAFE HE SAW BOOTY DIVIDED

Grocer's Clerk Watched Other

CONFESSIONS FOLLOWED

Manchester Avenue Merchant's
Clever Trap Solved Mystery of Missing Money.

By an original detective system, elaborate enough to capture and convict the man who hid Billy Patterson, Jacob Westerman, proprietor of a grocery and butcher shop at 603 Manchester avenue, proved two 17-year-old clerks guilty of misappropriating his money and secured their confession.

The youths are Charles Swoboda and H. M. Evans, and they are now in the Four Courts hold-over, with a charge of petit larceny against them.

Westerman had been missing money for several days. He suspected the boys, and formed a plan for their detection.

He marked a dollar bill and made note of its number. He scratched, in a peculiar manner, a half-dollar, a quarter, and a dime, and made record of the dates of the coins.

Then he took the bill and 50-cent piece to Mrs. B. Klein, 222 South Vandeventer avenue, and asked her to buy a ham and a pine apple with it.

Westerman took his marked quarter and dime to Charles Mische, 3800 Manchester avenue, and asked him to buy strawberries.

While the two boys were out of the store Westerman bought Arnold Krutel, about 1000, to the top of the big icebox to watch proceedings, and left the store.

Money in Secret Box.
Mrs. Klein came in and bought the ham and pineapples. Young Swoboda dropped the dollar bill and 50-cent piece in a small box, beneath the counter. When the woman was gone, Evans asked his share. Swoboda gave him 50 cents, but Evans was not satisfied.

Krutel, sweating in top of the icebox, listened to the wrangle, that ceased only when Charles Mische came and took away the berries with the marked coins.

Evans made the sale and received the 25 cents. Swoboda took the money and returned a dime to Evans. Then there was another quarrel.

When Westerman returned he sent the boys out in front for a moment, while he lifted the clerk from the top of the refrigerator and heard his story.

With the boys inside again, he sent Krutel for a policeman and locked all the doors. Policeman Andrews of the Seventh district made the arrests.

PARTNER ASKS RECEIVER.

William P. Edling Says Louis Decker Controls Their Livery Business.

William P. Edling brought suit against Louis Decker in the Circuit Court Wednesday for dissolution of partnership and the appointment of a receiver.

He says that on July 25, 1904, he went into partnership with Decker in a livery and undertaking business at 408-10 North Twelfth street, after selling Decker a half interest in the business, and that on April 29, 1905, Decker ordered him out and since then has had exclusive control of the business.

CUSTOM HOUSE ASSAYER FOR NINE YEARS, DEAD.

W. A. CRAIG.

William Ashton Craig, gold refiner and assayer in the St. Louis custom house for the past nine years, died of pneumonia in Mullaphy Hospital, Monday evening, after four weeks' illness.

Mr. Craig was a member of a prominent Kentucky family and was quite conspicuous in the affairs of his native state prior to, and during the civil war. He served as Union soldier and in 1864 was appointed lieutenant-colonel of the Seventh Regiment Kentucky Cavalry.

He came to St. Louis in 1882 and engaged in mining, principally, until 1898 when he was appointed to the position which he held until his death. He possessed great knowledge of mining and ores.

Mr. Craig was of striking appearance, erect and a typical Kentuckian. He was kind and cheerful, French naval commander at Saigon. The news is considered official and goes far to avert apprehension concerning serious trouble over the question of neutrality.

From St. Petersburg comes a report that the Russian cruisers Almaz and Jemchug, of Admiral Vodka's division, have evaded the Japanese and reached Vladivostok.

Concerning the destination of the main squadron nothing is known definitely. If two of the ships have reached Vladivostok it would appear that the Russian commander purposes a dash for the Siberian port. Whether he will be able, however, even if he wishes it, to avoid a battle is not so certain.

Concerning Japanese charges that France committed a breach of neutrality by allowing the Russian fleet to coal near Saigon, the Marquis de Barthélemy, who operates the French commission there, says:

"At the opening of the war the Russian government bought from the natives—not from France—a large tract of land on the Mekong river, not far from Saigon. On it they established a depot for coal, which was brought originally from Japan."

"It was to this depot that Admiral Rojestvensky sent his coilers. No warships approached it. This was not a violation of neutrality. France could not prevent Russia from taking its own coal from its own land."

"If the natives were at fault in selling the land to Russia, Japan should not have waited 15 months before protesting."

Debate Withheld Contended that a two-thirds vote was necessary to pass a general appropriation bill. He was supported in this contention by the other Republicans. Speaker Meehan said that he had been assured by City Councilor Bates that a majority was sufficient to pass the bill.

Delegate Weeks demanded information regarding the appropriation for the collection and disposition of the city's garbage. He said he had figures to prove that it was going to cost the city about $50,000 before the purchase of the city's garbage will be made for the disposal of the city's garbage.

"Besides this amount, however," said Delegate Williams, "there is a bill pending appropriating $50,000 for the collection and disposal of dead animals. This was formerly done by the contractors when the city got the whole job complete for something like $2,000 less than it is going to cost during the coming fiscal year."

"A little explanation will enlighten you and the taxpayers about this matter," replied Delegate O'Brien. "About $50,000 of the $95,000 set aside for the disposal of garbage will be used in permanent improvement of the city's garbage disposal system, and the construction of docks, landings and the acquisition of steamboats and scows. Then again over $2,000 of the $177,000 appropriated for the collection will go towards the purchase of the garbage collecting cars, which are better now than it ever was done before, making daily collections and has many more wagons in service."

Comptroller Player says that the city paid the contractors $12,000 for collecting and $130,000 for disposing of garbage in 1904-5.

CHIEF KIELY NOW HAS NO ORDERLY

Man Who Performed Duty Transferred to Beat and One Replaces Three.

Chief of Police Kiely Wednesday dispensed with the services of his orderly, Ernest Mindes, who was transferred to the Second District for patrol duty.

Talbot Walton, formerly clerk in the chief's office, has been assigned to duty under Dr. William Faulkner, manager of police property. Sergeant James McGrimm, of the Central District, is now doing the work done by Mindes and Walton.

Chief Kiely says that he will submit a name to the Board of Police Commissioners Friday for a secretary to succeed William Faulkner Jr., who recently resigned.

Chief Kiely says the changes were made on his own initiative. He needs all the men available for the work in the districts, he says. The force has been greatly reduced since the World's Fair.

French Admiral at Saigon Confirms Report of Junction Between Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff and Departure From Coast

TWO OF CZAR'S CRUISERS ARRIVE AT VLADIVOSTOK

Almaz and Jemchug Reported to Have Eluded Japanese and Reached Siberian Port—Main Squadron's Destination Unknown.

PARIS, May 10.—The Russian fleet under Admirals Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff have joined and sailed from Vangou Bay for the North.

Such is the purport of a message from Admiral De Jonquieres, French naval commander at Saigon. The news is considered official and goes far to avert apprehension concerning serious trouble over the question of neutrality.

From St. Petersburg comes a report that the Russian cruisers Almaz and Jemchug, of Admiral Vodka's division, have evaded the Japanese and reached Vladivostok.

Concerning the destination of the main squadron nothing is known definitely. If two of the ships have reached Vladivostok it would appear that the Russian commander purposes a dash for the Siberian port. Whether he will be able, however, even if he wishes it, to avoid a battle is not so certain.

PAINTED BULL ON WALL--ARREST

Court Held Endeavors in Eight Colors Trespass, and Fined Two Artists $25 Each.

Jessie Atkinson and James Gassaway will have to pay fines of $25 each for painting a bull on a man's wall without that man's permission. Judge Tracy decided in the City Hall Police Court Wednesday that their artistic endeavors constituted trespass and fined them that much each.

Alexander Finney of 1232 Park avenue, testified that they painted a bull on his wall at that address without his knowledge or consent. He discovered what they were doing when it was too late and had them arrested just as they were putting the finishing touches to the animal.

He described the picture as that of a bull in the springtime. He said seven or eight colors were used, mostly red and yellow, and gave it as his opinion that it was not a work of art.

When Attorney Stanton had exhausted other lines of defense, he tried to tell Judge Tracy that it was incumbent on the court to establish, otherwise than by the court's observation, that the defendants were over the age of 16 years, as the information set forth.

The implication that he could not tell whether the defendants were over 16 years of age and fined them each $25.

CLEVER ROBBER GETS $27,000 OF EQUITABLE FUNDS

Plot to Borrow on Policy After Records Had Been Altered by Trusted Employee Disclosed by Arrest of Ex-Convict.

ACCOMPLICE IN THEFT IS NOT YET DISCOVERED.

Noted Forger Caught When Scheme for Obtaining Insurance Money Was Repeated and Bank Demanded Identification.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
STROUDSBURG, Pa., May 10.—With the arrest here of William Daly, alias Samuel Lobly, alias half a dozen other names, was disclosed a most daring robbery. Daly is charged with the larceny of $27,000 from the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The prisoner is an old time forger, who has served in many prisons.

William B. Cotton of Brookline, Mass., holds a $50,000 policy in the Equitable. In March, 1904, he borrowed $27,000 on his policy, which he pledged as security. It was locked up in the company's vaults, where only a few persons could have reached it. In August of that year it was stolen, officers of the Equitable say. The theft was not discovered because it was committed by a trusted employee.

The original entry of the loan was altered and Cotton's name was forged to a letter requesting a loan of $27,000. As the record of the policy did not show that there was an outstanding loan, the second loan was allowed through the usual course. The policy was again put into the securities' vault.

The loan had been made to a man who called himself Samuel Edwards, but the police say he was really Samuel Lobly. After the second loan on the policy Edwards and the employee tried to secure a third loan. The policy was again stolen, and Jan. 31, 1905, after the entries in the books had been erased and altered, another application for a loan, forged in the name of the real policy-holder, Cotton, was made.

The records again did not show an outstanding loan, and the third loan was also granted. Somebody representing Cotton appeared before a New York notary and made oath to the signature of Cotton. The check was to be made out payable to one R. C. Henderson. The check was put in a letter and sent to the Boston office of the Equitable. The employee tried to secure a fourth loan. The policy was again stolen, and Jan. 31, 1905, after the entries in the books had been erased and altered, another application for a loan, forged in the name of the real policy-holder, Cotton, was made.

The child is sick. The mother is frantic. She tries everything in and out of reason and waits to see signs of recovery. Something is wrong—medicines don't work—the patient ought to get well and doesn't.

The wife doctor writes his first prescription thus: Rx: 1 bottle C. N.—household size—and shows the nurse (if she doesn't know) how to sprinkle it in the sick room. More fundamental than medicines—it paves the way for them; absorbs all the impurities in the air; and makes it possible for the little patient to climb back to health.

Girl, Pet of Family, When Scolded, Seeks Death

Humored by Parents and Four Brothers, She Broods Over Father's Reprimand and Drinks Carbolic Acid on Street.

Edna Schlegel, the pretty 15-year-old daughter of Oscar Schlegel of 225 Franklin avenue, who took carbolic acid Tuesday evening because her father had scolded her and refused to let her go for a car ride Monday evening with a young man and a girl friend, is out of danger by physicians at the City Hospital.

Edna's parents say she brooded all day Tuesday over the scolding, and, in the evening after supper, asked for a dime to start for a nearby drug store. Instead of buying ice cream she procured a small bottle of carbolic acid, and half an hour later, when the mother heard a noise on the rear porch of the home, she opened the door and found her daughter lying unconscious. A physician was summoned, but the girl's condition was so serious that she was taken to the City Hospital.

Edna is the only daughter and has four brothers. She is the pet of her parents and brothers. Her father said he gave her nearly everything she wished and rarely forbade her doing as she wanted.

The girl says her father had scolded her several times the past few days, and she didn't care to live under such conditions.

Dreyfuss Pays Clymer's Fine.

PITTSBURGH, May 10.—The fine imposed upon Otto Clymer by President Harry Pulliam for the Pittsburgher's dispute with Jack Warner at St. Louis has been paid by President Dreyfuss and will not be deducted from the player's salary. Sunday Clymer was a participant in another dispute with Blankenship of the Cincinnati Reds, who claimed Clymer tried to spike him. In referring to this latter case Dreyfuss said that he would also pay any fine that might be imposed upon Clymer for the trouble with Blankenship. "I will not allow my players to be imposed upon by rowdies," said Mr. Dreyfuss. "Warner and Blankenship were both at fault. I paid the Warner fine, and if Clymer is assessed by Pulliam I will pay the fine out of my own personal funds."

JACKSONVILLE MAYOR SAYS: "Pe-ru-na Is an Honest Medicine I Endorse It"

Hon. M. A. Dzilynski, Judge Municipal Court, former Mayor of Jacksonville, County Commissioner for Duval County, City Treasurer, also County Tax Collector, writes from Jacksonville, Fla.

"My experience and that of my family has been that Peruna is an excellent medicine for colds, general debility and stomach trouble."

"I am therefore pleased to endorse it, as I fully appreciate its merits and believe that it is an honest medicine well worthy the confidence of the public."

They do not reach the cause, however. The real cause is catarrh. When the cause is removed, the symptoms will disappear. Peruna is the remedy that should be used.

It cleanses the digestive organs of all catarrhal derangements. This at once stimulates the digestion and invigorates the circulation, and everything very quickly goes right again.

It is the promptness with which Peruna cures these cases that has caused some of the bitterest tones are generally resorted to and in some cases they do seem to benefit.

MISSOURI PASTOR UNDER INDICTMENT

Illinois Grand Jury Charges the Rev. John T. Mason of Albany
With Criminal Libel.

EVANGELIST THE ACCUSER

Lorenzo D. Lamkin Asserts Clergyman Wrote Letters Attacking His Moral Character.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 10.—The Sangamon County grand jury has indicted the Rev. John T. Mason of the Baptist Church of Albany, Mo., on a charge of criminal libel. Gov. Deneen will be asked to issue a requisition as soon as he returns from Chicago.

The indictment was returned on evidence furnished by the Rev. Lorenzo D. Lamkin, a traveling evangelist from the Indian Territory. Lamkin conducted a revival series at the Albany church last year, and subsequently arranged for similar meetings at the Central Baptist Church of Springfield. When he heard of this, Lamkin says, the Rev. Mr. Mason wrote to the Rev. E. B. Rogers of Springfield, informing him that Lamkin was not a proper person to conduct religious services. Mr. Rogers asked for particulars, upon which, Lamkin asserted, Mr. Mason sent the following letter to the Springfield clergyman:

"ALBANY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Your letter of inquiry received. Speaking of Lamkin: A married lady in this town, whose integrity is above reproach, a member of the Baptist Church, says he made an attack on her in her own home.

"In Poplar Bluff, this state, he brought great trouble and reproach upon the church because of misconduct. His behavior with young lady converts from 14 to 16 years of age is often called in question. Many other statements are whispered among the ministers and laymen of this state.

"I suppose these facts will be sufficient for you. If I can serve you further, command me."

Despite the letter, the revival meeting was held in Springfield. Leaving here, Lamkin says the letters followed him wherever he went. These communications, he says, have ruined him.

Dick: So she is, reserved for me.

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

ANT-RAILROAD SPEECHES STIR THE SENATORS

Warnings From Roosevelt and Taft That Transportation Charges Must Be Curbed Offend Commerce Committeemen.

UTTERANCES MAY FORCE MORTON FROM CABINET.

President's Expressed Determination to Urge Rate Legislation Especially Unpleasant, It Is Said, to Secretary of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft, between them, have stirred up a tremendous commotion by their openly expressed advocacy of railroad rate legislation.

What the President said at Denver Monday night created a storm among the members of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce. Last night Secretary Taft made a speech before the International Railroad Congress here which set the transportation men violently by the ears.

Secretary of the Navy Morton, it is freely predicted, is so decidedly out of harmony with the administration's policy that he will soon retire from the Cabinet.

The interstate commerce committeemen openly assert that they think the President's Denver utterances a decided effort to induce the popular charge that the Senate is preparing to smother any proposed legislation in the direction of an extension of the Interstate Commerce Commission's powers.

The Republican senators discuss the speech with much heat. Their comment is that the President is not so well prepared as they to pass on the situation. They take the speech as a notice that Mr. Roosevelt means to brush the committee aside and impose his own will on the Senate.

Secretary Taft's contribution to the disturbance took the form of a declaration, in a speech before the International Railroad Congress at the Hotel Willard last night, that rate legislation must come, and that the railroad men of the country, if they are wise, will aid and not hinder it. The country's sentiment is such, he added, that failure of proper regulation will mean a campaign which will do the railroad little good.

For a moment after Mr. Taft sat down deep silence reigned. Then President Suyvesant Fish of the Railroad Congress and the Illinois Central Railroad Co. jumped to his feet and began an earnest address in support of the contention that present traffic regulations amply suffice.

"May I have 15 minutes to reply?" asked Secretary Taft after Mr. Fish had finished. The secretary's request was granted, and he complied with it, upon which the cabinet officer made even more emphatic than before his position that a tribunal must be created with power to fix maximum rates.

HENDRICKS BEGINS
EQUITABLE PROBING

Insurance Company's Officers Examined—Injunction Against Company Is Denied.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The examination of officers and directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society by the State Insurance Department was begun yesterday when President Alexander spent considerable time with President Hendricks. The examination was conducted in the society's board room, and Congressman Driscoll, Superintendent Hendricks' legal adviser, assisted.

Vice-President Hyde was closeted with Superintendent Hendricks and Representative Driscoll today. He was accompanied by his counsel, Samuel Untermyer. It is stated that Vice-President Tarbell's examination will follow.

Justice McLean, in the New York Supreme Court today, denied the application of Herbert G. Fuld of Philadelphia, a policyholder in the Equitable Life Assurance Society, for an injunction restraining that society and the State Superintendent of Insurance from proceeding further with the proposed amended charter of the Equitable which was sent to the superintendent of insurance for his approval. The amended charter provides for the mutualization of the society.

J. S. MARMADUKE DISOWNED SON

John S. Marmaduke, a member of the Marmaduke family, prominent in Missouri for many years, in his will filed for probate cuts off his 18-year-old son with only $1, leaving his entire estate to his sister, Mrs. Lizzie M. Eskridge of 413 Belmont boulevard.

The reason assigned in the will by Mr. Marmaduke for refusing his son a bequest is that the boy permitted himself to be influenced against his father and had taken the name of his stepfather, Mr. Hunter of Chicago, to whom Mrs. Marmaduke was married after being divorced from Mr. Marmaduke.

Mr. Marmaduke was formerly prominent in banking circles in St. Louis, being connected with the Bank of the Republic, which was later merged with the Merchants-Laclede National Bank. For a time after this consolidation he was in the brokerage business, but five years ago went to California. For the past two years he had been purser on the steamship Coptic, and several months ago contracted a severe cold during a storm off the coast of Japan. He was confined in hospitals in Yokohama, Honolulu and San Francisco, and was taken to his home in St. Louis. He was then suffering from rheumatism of the heart. Although he recovered sufficiently to walk about the house, he suffered a relapse and died last Wednesday.

Brings Suit for Rental.

Russell A. Richardson brought suit in the Circuit Court Wednesday against Warlick G. Rice of 1113 North Market street and John Floyd of 1513 North Market street to recover, with interest and costs, the sum of $1200, alleged to be due for four months' rental of a storeroom on the first floor of the Josephine building on the northwest corner of Collinsville and St. Louis avenues, East St. Louis. Plaintiff claims that Oct. 31, 1902, he leased to defendants for five years the quarters in question, at a yearly rental of $3000, payable monthly in advance, and alleges that the payments for February, March, April and May are still due.

UNVEIL FLORAL BELL FOR SCHILLER

Germans End Week's Celebration in Poet's Honor With Ceremonies at Monument.

St. Louis Germans are rejoicing Wednesday over the unprecedented enthusiasm which has been shown during the memorial celebration of the anniversary of the death of Schiller, the great German poet. After a week of pompous celebration, which furnished a remarkable demonstration of the universal influence of the German poet, the exercises were brought to a close in St. Louis Park Tuesday afternoon. Thousands participated in the ceremonies at the Schiller monument and a large floral bell, five feet in height and made of golden laurel leaves, entwined with evergreen, was unveiled by the following ladies selected from prominent German societies: Misses Amanda Buschaupt, Bertha Schmieding, Edna Paschedag, Eugenia Meers and Laura Meers.

A song composed from one of the famous poet's finest poems, "The Bell," was sung at the beginning of Tuesday's exercises, which were conducted in the German language, with the exception of an address by Rev. John W. Day.

Dr. P. Igen, in his address of welcome, fittingly remarked that the demonstration in honor of Schiller is a public confession that "He is ours."

The German address was delivered by Rev. H. Walz, who touched in particular upon the religious side of Schiller's life. The ceremonies at the park were preceded by appropriate exercises in the public schools and the tolling of bells at 2 o'clock.

BOWELS OUT OF ORDER? DON'T DELAY. IT'S CONSTIPATION BLOOD POISON KILLS

Your loss if you do not accept this free test. Unless you have used Mull's Grape Tonic recently your bowels are clogged with undigested rotting food and you don't know it. Good soil for disease grows.

You may have a bottle free to prove that it cures this constipated, poisoned condition of your system. Your bowels will become healthy and active. There is no other remedy known that can give you these results, because unlike everything else, it feeds and strengthens the bowel muscles instead of weakening them. Mull's Grape Tonic is based upon an entirely new principle. Until this remedy was placed upon the American market, constipation was incurable.

DO YOU WONDER why you have bad blood, bad breath, sore, pimples, yellow complexion, neuritis, weakness, nervousness, run down and general bad health, when every drop of your blood contains the germs of rotting food?

BE CLEAN—rid your system of this foul mass that is undermining your health. Good health is within reach if you will accept it.

A physic can't help you—makes you worse—you know this from experience. It paralyzes the bowel muscles and increases the stoppage. Mull's Grape Tonic is not a physic, differs from everything else known. It takes the poison—strengthens the bowel muscles—makes you entirely new inside. It has the same cleansing effect on your intestines that whitewash has on a foul cellar.

A refreshing sensation is imparted as the bowels untangle anything you have ever known, because Mull's Grape Tonic feeds and strengthens the muscles of the intestinal tract and the bowels.

Grape food is being rapidly recognized. The French Academy of Medicine last year made some startling discoveries as to the therapeutic value of grapes. Mull's Grape Tonic is nearly 50 per cent grape.

A bottle will be given free to any person sending name and druggist's name. This enables you to test it without expense. We want to prove that what we say is true. Address Mull's Grape Tonic Co., 135 Third Avenue, Rock Island, Ill.

This valuable Grape Tonic is now sold in all reliable drug stores. The $1.00 bottle contains nearly three times the 30c size.

CAUTION. The genuine always has a number and date stamped in indelible ink on the label—except no other. Please write for a free bottle at once while the offer is open. Tell your friends about it.

ZHITOMIR JEWS GIVE ASSASSINS A HARD BATTLE

Fifty Persons Killed and Hundreds Injured in Attempt of Orthodox Christians in Russian Town to Duplicate Kishineff.

HEBREWS TAKE WARNING AND PREPARE TO FIGHT.

Attempted Massacre Is Made as Victims Go to Synagogue—Hand-to-Hand Fighting Lasts for Two Whole Days.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 10.—Reluctant as the officials are to admit the true state of affairs, each additional report from Zhitomir tends to show that the recent massacre of Jews there by orthodox Christians (so called) was a second Kishineff.

The censored report giving the list of killed as 12 and the wounded as 50, is regarded here as an official joke. Private dispatches prove conclusively that there were at least 50 slain, and that the number of wounded will go into the hundreds.

Unlike Kishineff, however, the victims were not all Jews. Apparently confident of their strength and of their success in cowing the Jews, the Zhitomir Christians opening by boasting of their intention to have a second Kishineff. The Jews heard and prepared.

Jews Fight Stubbornly.

When on May 7 the butcheries began, the orthodox Christians found the Jews prepared and to their great surprise were given a stubborn fight, the Hebrews though greatly outnumbered exchanging blow for blow in the face of unequal odds.

The attack was made as the Jews were going to their synagogue early in the morning. In an instant the Jews produced the weapons which they had concealed and three of the streets were speedily filled with fighting, struggling crowds, in which it was difficult to distinguish friend from foe.

The leaders of the attack had planned to drive the Jews to the center of the town and there exterminate them, and with this object in view several simultaneous onslaughts were made, but to the great astonishment of the crowd the Jews turned by fighting and by shooting down two of the leaders of the attacking party on the first exchange of bullets disconcerted the mob.

The Jews were at a disadvantage, being caught between two forces, but fought manfully in the hand-to-hand encounters which wound up the fray, and in which scores were killed and injured.

Further Trouble Feared.

The mob leaders have sworn to have the lives of two Jews for every Christian that fell, and there are grave fears of a resumption of the rioting.

It is asserted that a fortnight before the disorders proclamations were spread calling on the Christians to beat the Jews. When these proclamations were shown to the Mayor of Zhitomir the latter declared them to be stupid and said there was no occasion for alarm.

At the Ministry of the Interior it is said that M. Boullenger sent urgent instructions the night of May 8 to Zhitomir ordering the authorities there to protect the Jews and prevent disorders.

FUGITIVE 8 YEARS ARRESTED.

Man Who Jumped Bond Accused of Trying to Pick a Pocket.

James F. Ryan is a prisoner at the Four Courts, accused by the police with attempting to rob William S. King of Edwardsville, Ill., at the Union racetrack Tuesday afternoon.

While in the act of placing his hand in King's pocket, the police say, he was arrested by Detectives John Butler and Pat Butler of Chief Desmond's staff.

At the Four Courts, Ryan, who gave his name as Reed, was recognized by Detective Williams as the same man who in 1902 escaped from Joseph Schuler, his bondsman while being brought here from New Orleans to answer a petty charge. He admitted his identity.

Presentation at Apollo Club Banquet to Retiring Director.

At the annual banquet of the Apollo Club, at the Southern Hotel Tuesday night, Charles H. Galloway, the retiring director, was presented a watch. President Charles Wiggins, who acted as toastmaster, made the presentation.

Mr. Galloway was taken by surprise. The watch is an elegant piece of workmanship. On the back is the monogram of Mr. Galloway and inside the back cover is an inscription. Stephen A. Martin and W. C. Niedringhaus were soloists. George M. Ralston gave a recitation. There was singing by a quartet composed of Messrs. Daur, Smith, Niedringhaus and Roe. Secretary T. J. Wright made remarks.

ROCKEFELLER JR. HOME FROM EUROPE

He Refuses to Discuss "Tainted" Money While Bible Class Members Greet Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 10.—John D. Rockefeller Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller, arrived here last evening on the Red Star liner Finland after a three months' tour of Europe. Mr. Rockefeller was abroad to recuperate his health. The young man looked improved, though he is still pale. "What have you to say in regard to the 'tainted money' discussion?" was asked. "That is a very delicate question. I don't think it necessary to defend my father," was the answer.

It was learned that Mr. Rockefeller is going to his country place in the Catskills to rest several weeks. Several members of his Bible class were at the pier to meet him.

SOLDAN ADVISES SCHOOL FOR TRUANTS

Following Re-Election as Superintendent, He Addresses Board of Education on Plan.

Following his re-election as superintendent of the St. Louis public schools Tuesday night for a term of four years, F. Louis Soldan urged the board of education to establish a "parental school" which provides both a school and a temporary home for truant children.

He cited the Chicago parental school as an example and showed that, although the cost of maintaining such a school was considerable, $45 a year for each child, it is not intended for truant children alone, but also receives children between 8 and 12 years old who while in attendance are incorrigible.

An increase of officers' salaries was provided for as follows: Superintendent, $200; commissioner of buildings, $200; auditor, $200; supply commissioner, $200. The following resignations were received and accepted: John W. Witt, Columbia School Center; Maude W. Bennett, Eastman High School; Mayme Kneikenbaum, Clifton Heights school; Emma H. Krook, St. Xavier school; Ella Euerlein, Sherman school; Fannie B. Cole, Garnett school; Mano S. Henry, Horace Mann school, and Julia Langenkamp.

DOCTORS TO HAVE "DEADBEAT" LIST

East St. Louis Physicians to Organize Society to Enable Practice on Cash Basis.

Physicians of East St. Louis are to have a meeting next week to organize a society for the purpose of protecting themselves against persons who do not pay their doctor's bills, and to so regulate the practice of medicine as to put it on a cash basis. Notices are being sent to all the physicians in East St. Louis and assurances of co-operation are said to have been received from a sufficient number of them to make it certain that there will be a large attendance and the society will be organized.

A secretary is to be appointed to prepare a "deadbeat list" and keep it up to date. It is the purpose of the doctors to refuse to respond to calls from persons on this list unless the cash is in sight.

The physicians say that on account of a considerable proportion of the population of the city being of the unsettled sort they lose much through the frequent migrations of families, who seem to deem it cheaper to move than to pay doctor's bills.

JOY AND STONE GOING

Considering Advantages of Three Months' Travel Cost Is Not Considered High.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 10.—Elaborate preparations are being made by the War Department for the journey of Secretary Taft and his party to the Philippines, China and Japan.

The St. Louis members of the party will be former Congressman Charles F. Joy, and probably United States Senator William J. Stone and one of his daughters. Berths and accommodations for the entire crowd have been reserved on the Pacific Mail steamship Manchuria, which is scheduled to sail from San Francisco the morning of July 8. It is expected that the travelers will reach San Francisco on the return trip Oct. 1.

If a sufficient number of Secretary Taft's guests make known their intentions in time, they will assemble in Chicago July 2, and the Union Pacific Railroad will run a special train from there to San Francisco, as a second section of its Overland Limited, with a dining car for their exclusive use.

If this arrangement is not made the guests will travel separately or in small parties to San Francisco. They will be entertained by Judge William H. Morrow of the United States District Court with a day's visit at Bohemian Camp, 75 miles from the city.

It will cost each member of the Taft party a pretty penny to make this Oriental tour, but not so much, all told, when it is considered that they will be away from home three months.

Will Cost $50 a Week.

The expenses to each individual, excepting the official members of the party, will exceed $50 a week.

Col. Clarence H. Edwards, U. S. A., chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, who is well known in St. Louis by reason of his connection with the Philippine exposition at the World's Fair, has made the following estimate of the expenses for the information and guidance of prospective members of the party:

Through rate ticket, Washington to Manila. Insular rate. $4175
Pullman to San Francisco. 18
Meals en route to San Francisco, at least five days, at $3 a day. 15
Tips en route to San Francisco. 10
One day's stop in San Francisco. 10
Tips, table, etc., en route to Manila. 5
Tips, cabin boy, who is also his steward. 5
(For Chinese boys one-half this amount is sufficient.)
Steamer chair. 2
Day's stop at Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagasaki. $10 each. 40
Ten days' stop at Manila, under the possible assumption that security of the party will be guaranteed by Philippine officials, allow, say. 20
Twenty days on U. S. transport through Sulu Islands at $1.50 a day for subsistence, say. 30
Return through rate ticket, Manila home. 175
Fire to seven days' stop Hongkong, including possible trip to Canton. 30
Return stop en route, for at $10 a day. 40
Tips on steamer returning. 10
Pullman from San Francisco home, lower berth. 18
Meals from San Francisco home. 15
Tips, San Francisco home. 5

Total. $943
In the case of the official guests, the members of Congress, items 1, 11 and 12, or a total of $380, should be deducted. 380
Total. 563
The cost, it will be observed, amounts to $30 for the entire trip, or only $10 a month, which is no more than a man gives away to his waiter and barber at home.

Khaki and Flannel.

Added to these items will be the cost of two khaki suits and a suit of white serge or white flannel, to travel in; also an extra large supply of linen—much more than would be needed at home—since the weather will be hot and there will be little opportunity to have laundry work done.

The steamship Manchuria is due to leave Honolulu July 15. Yokohama will be the first stop in Japan. The steamship will leave there July 25, and should arrive at Manila Aug. 5.

The Japanese government, through one of its secretaries of the legation at Washington, has indicated that it would be pleased to extend to the party some official courtesy while in Japan, and if this invitation should be accepted, the stop would be made on the return trip.

The party will return on the new steamship Korea, leaving Manila about Sept. 1. A stop of four or five days will be made at Hongkong, China, and from there the party will sail to San Francisco. A week or 10 days will be spent in and around Manila, and a tour of the archipelago, lasting two or three weeks, will be made on a government transport.

STATES TO BUY FISH EGGS

Pennsylvania and New Jersey to Stock Delaware River.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PORT JERVIS, N. Y., May 10.—Fish commissioners of New Jersey and Pennsylvania will purchase in Canada 1,000,000 Atlantic salmon eggs, which will be hatched at the Pennsylvania trout hatchery at Mount Pleasant. Commissioner Meehan says that it has been demonstrated that the Delaware river will make a splendid salmon stream by constant stocking. It is contemplated also to stock the Delaware with sturgeon.

THE WEDDING DINNER WAITS.

Young Person Denied License, Though They Pleaded Hard.

Though they affirmed almost tearfully that the girl did not dab the corners of her eyes with her handkerchief—that there was a wedding dinner waiting for them, John P. Gorman and Miss Maude La Brier of St. Louis were denied a license by Clerk Caughlin of East St. Louis Wednesday morning.

Gorman said he was 21 years old and the girl said she was 19. Because of his youthful appearance Caughlin was skeptical of Gorman's statement and said that his parents' consent would be necessary. "Mother can't come," declared the young man. "She's getting the wedding dinner," he explained.

Then they told the clerk how their two families were gathered at Miss La Brier's home, near Tower Grove Park, for the feast and that delay would upset all their plans. The girl was pretty and she pleaded eloquently, but the clerk was stubborn. So the downcast young man and young woman left, saying they would return with their parents to prove their age.

Many a girl who graduates from high school or female college with a brilliant record and high standing is broken down before she is twenty. Nowadays girls are pushed to the limit of their endurance both in school and society. They must make a success—even if they are forever unfitted for the larger school of life and debarred from wedded happiness and the bliss of motherhood.

At this time of life, when just entering upon womanhood, nature makes heavy drains upon the vitality, especially at each monthly period.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

the most wonderful of all tonic restorative medicines for women, will tide a young girl over this trying time and bring her safely into strong, noble, beautiful womanhood.

Experience of a Beautiful High School Girl

Her First Letter.
MY DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to see if you can suggest some means to cure me. A little more than a year ago I was sick with menstruation for the first time, and since then I have been sick all the time in some way or other and suffered with painful and irregular menstruation. I went to a summer resort for my health and was doctored all summer, but to no effect. I have not menstruated for two months and thought I would see if you could do me any good. I attend High School and would not like to miss any time if it is possible. MARION BARBER, North Adams, Mass.

Miss Barber writes again after two years
MY DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you for advice, being troubled with irregular and painful menstruation and womb disease. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and using the Sanative Wash, and I am glad to say I am completely cured and have not had any sickness since. I wish to thank you for your kind advice and shall recommend your medicine to my girl friends. MARION BARBER, 101 Bracewell Ave., North Adams, Mass.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 10.—John Golby and Harry Smith were crushed to death and John Chambers was fatally injured by the collapse of the Harroun grain elevator at Elwood, Kan., directly across the Missouri river from St. Joseph, at 9:30 o'clock last night.

A tornado blew in the south side of the elevator and the top stories were carried for a distance of 70 feet. Golby was smothered in a bin of grain and Smith was crushed by timbers. The damage to the elevator was $20,000, and tornado insurance amounting to $50,000 was carried.

Lonely, With Sweetheart Gone, Youth Determined to Die

William Carmen, Wrote Letter to Girl He Had Just Bidden Good-Bye, and Laid Down With Gas Escaping, but Was Resuscitated.

After writing a letter to his sweetheart, whom he had bidden good-by but a few hours before, William Carmen, Tuesday night, suddenly determined upon suicide.

He addressed, sealed and stamped the letter, put it on a table in his room at 1103 Tyler street, tightly closed the door and laid down. He was found unconscious at 1 a. m. Wednesday by another roomer, who detected the odor of the gas and broke into the room. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he is recovering.

Carmen says he knows of no reason why he should have tried to kill himself. He obeyed a sudden impulse, he says, and after reaching the decision does not remember what happened.

Carmen is a country boy, reared near Quincy, Ill. He is 22 years old. A few months since he went to a business college in Quincy to learn stenography. There he met Miss Anna Ridge, 18 years old, of a well-known family in Shelbyville. Miss Ridge was also learning stenography. He fell in love with her and when Miss Ridge came to St. Louis to get a position Carmen followed. Miss Ridge lived at 1814 Washington avenue, and she and Carmen frequently met. Tuesday her grandfather came from Shelbyville to take her back home.

She notified Carmen, who went to Union Station with her. He says there was no quarrel, and he supposes the feeling of loneliness that came over him after she had gone was what prompted his attempt at self-destruction.

ST. LOUIS, MECCA FOR PICKPOCKETS

Some Came to Races, Others En Route to Portland and to Follow President.

The police say that a mass of pickpockets and other dishonest folk are coming into St. Louis, part of them drawn by the opening of the racetracks, part on their way to the Portland fair, and part going to meet and follow President Roosevelt's party and work the crowds.

They have been arriving for nearly a week and the detectives have been keeping a keen watch for them.

Since Sunday ten men have been arrested who are alleged to have police records. Fred Goebel was arrested on a street car at Sarah street and McPherson avenue. He is said to have been here for some time.

Dick Wilson, who is being held, is said to be a "booster" or "dip" for a "dip." In other words he is said to be a pickpocket's partner, one who bumps against persons in a crowd and attracts their attention while the pickpocket gets in his work. He is from Cleveland.

Other arrested and records attributed to them are as follows: Billy Mack, pickpocket, from San Francisco; James S. Ryan, pickpocket, Chicago; George, alias Dutch, Bradley, pickpocket, New York; William G. alias "Duck," Moffett, sneak thief, just out of Chester Penitentiary; Eugene Ridgeway, robber, Hot Springs, who has been doing time in Kansas City; Al Curtis, thief, recently released from Jefferson City Penitentiary; Al Owens, burglar, recently released from Jefferson City Penitentiary; William Dewees, just out of Jefferson City Penitentiary, where he served five years.

With the exception of Ryan, who is said to have been caught at Union race track with his hand in a man's pocket, all of the men will be sent to Police Court on vacancy charges.

EXCHANGE FAVORS RATE REGULATION

Unanimous Opposition to Business
Men's League's Stand Against Interstate Commerce Bill.

RIVAL COMMITTEES NAMED

Each Organization to Send Members for Hearing in Washington on Railroad Legislation.

Before the adjournment of the Senate Committee, which is giving recess hearings on the House bill to vest the Interstate Commerce Commission with power to decide as to the justice of railroad freight rates and fix new rates where deemed necessary, at least two committees from St. Louis business organizations will appear before it.

These committees will oppose each other. As told in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, one from the Business Men's League will oppose the bill. Tuesday afternoon the Merchants' Exchange Executive Committee authorized the appointment of a committee to go to Washington and urge the passage of the bill.

The friends and opponents in St. Louis of the bill, which is supported by President Roosevelt, agree on one point—that there is much to be said in favor of the bill. But the opponents of the bill declare St. Louis will be better off with the adjustment of these rates is left with the railroads, whereas the friends of the bill contend that the only chance for improvement is in placing full power to control rates in the hands of a national commission.

The meeting of the Merchants' Exchange Executive Committee was presided over by President Otto L. Teichmann, who is also vice-president of the Business Men's League, and led, with Schurmermacher, in record as opposing the rate regulation bill.

Exchange Unanimous.

Unlike the meeting of Tuesday evening, when the resolution introduced and supported by Murray Carleton, was adopted by the Merchants' Exchange meeting was unanimous in favoring the bill.

There was no opposition to the resolution authorizing President Teichmann to appoint a committee of four to appear before the Senate Committee and urge passage of the bill. The president appointed W. P. Kennett, R. Ballard, Edward Devoy and George F. Powell as the committee.

Mr. Devoy is a member of the Executive Committee of the Business Men's League, chairman of its Committee on Commerce and Finance, and also a member of the Committee on Finance and Conventions and Entertaining.

Teichmann declares that not only the executive committee, but every member of the Merchants' Exchange, is in favor of the bill increasing the power of the interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of regulating freight rates.

President Walbridge of the Business Men's League has not yet announced the committee which will go to Washington to represent the league to oppose the bill.

The action of the executive, national, legislative and transportation committees, in joint session, placing the league on record as opposing the bill, was taken after due consideration and full debate," said Mr. Walbridge.

RUN OVER, PASSING BEFORE FUNERAL

Priest Went to Aid of Old Man
Who Was Bruised by Two Carriages.

Goodlett Harmon, a dairy wagon driver, was run over and badly hurt by two carriages in a funeral procession at 2600 North Grand avenue Wednesday.

A priest, who was in a third carriage, went to Harmon's assistance and carried him to the curb; then, with other members of the funeral party, carried him to the office of Dr. L. H. Crapp at 2528 North Grand avenue.

Dr. Crapp found his injuries were serious, and sent him to the City Hospital. Harmon was crossing the street when one of the carriages struck him. He fell and the wheels rolled over him. The driver of the second carriage had no time to stop his team, and the second carriage also passed over the prostrate man.

PLAN "CONEY ISLAND" AT PIASA BLUFFS?

Hotel and Grounds at Elsah, Ill., to Be Sold and Perhaps Converted Into Resort.

It was reported Wednesday that the Piasa Bluffs Hotel and grounds at Elsah, Ill., about six miles from St. Louis, had been purchased for the purpose of converting it into a summer resort fashioned after Coney Island.

A man identified with the brewery interests was said to have made the purchase and it was stated that a very large amount would be spent in making the place attractive.

The property has been owned for several years by Charles W. Nugent. He has lived there in the summer time and entertained large companies of his friends there.

Mr. Nugent admitted Wednesday that negotiations for the sale of the property were well advanced, but said that the deeds had not been passed and declined to give particulars.

He was asked if it was true that a large sum would be spent in converting the place into a resort of Coney Island type, and he said "perhaps."

The property consists of about a thousand acres. There is a large hotel on the bluffs high above the Mississippi river. It was built about 1870 and was owned by a St. Louis syndicate and operated as a summer hotel for a time along conservative lines, but was not a success, and later Mr. Nugent bought it.

The properer adjoining that of the Piasa Bluffs, Chautauque, which is the antithesis of the Coney Island idea, and an interesting contrast was presented by the plans said to be in contemplation should be carried out.

BOY UNDER WAGON UPSET BY RUNAWAY

Thrown in Collision, but His Smallness Prevented Vehicle
From Falling on Him.

UNABLE TO CONTROL HORSE

Frightened Animal Dodged Cars and Would-Be Captors-on Pine Street.

Louis Thirlich, 15 years old, may thank his lack of more years and greater size for the fact that he was not seriously hurt in an exciting runaway accident down Pine street Wednesday.

Louis, at 10:30 a. m., was in a wagon belonging to Louis Busch, standing in front of Busch's store at 314 Pine street. The single horse attached to the wagon seemed quiet enough, and Louis was not paying much attention to it.

But something frightened the horse and it began to run. Louis could not regain control of it, and had no chance to escape from the wagon, a delivery vehicle with a top.

The horses galloped east on Pine street, dodging cars and swerving from side to side of the street to dodge those who tried to stop it. It dashed across Broadway without accident and approached Fourth street at the northwest corner.

There efforts to stop it were made, and it swerved sharply to the east and south. A wheel of the wagon struck against the edge of the curbing at the southeast corner and the wagon was thrown over on the sidewalk, striking the side of the building occupied by Kranke's jewelry store. Louis was thrown out and under the wagon, but his smallness prevented the wagon from falling upon him.

The horse stopped and was caught by Policeman McCormick. The wagon was lifted up and Louis taken from beneath it. There was a bad bruise on his head and his shoulder was wrenched, but he seemed to suffer no further injury. He was treated at the City Dispensary and sent to his home at 718 South Seventh street.

LAUGHED AT LONG SENTENCE

Men in Sanguinette Saloon Shooting Found Guilty.

When the sealed verdict of the jury, giving him 10 years, was opened and read in Judge Foster's court Tuesday, James Davis, with 22 in the penitentiary already before him, broke into a laugh which was heard outside of the courtroom.

William Hartnett, jointly charged with Davis, who was sentenced to 15 years, also broke into a laugh when the announcement of his sentence was given.

Davis and Hartnett were tried Monday on charges of shooting Policeman Robert M. Sloan with intent to kill in the Sanguinette saloon at Jefferson and Lucas avenues Jan. 10.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—St. Louis has gained only 12,347 inhabitants during the past year, according to estimates just completed by Director North of the Census Bureau.

The population of St. Louis at this time is estimated at 636,973, and it is given fourth place in the list of large cities. The population of St. Louis in 1904 is given at 624,626.

The estimates bring New York near the four-million mark and Chicago within 929 of the two-million mark. This is an increase of 461,885 for New York, since the 1900 census, and 1,190, and 321,175 for Chicago during the same period. Following are the estimates for the cities named:

New York	3,884,118	3,802,997
Chicago	1,982,313	1,860,759
Philadelphia	1,232,339	1,167,062
St. Louis	636,973	624,626
Boston	607,869	617,102
Baltimore	528,765	546,217
San Francisco	425,652	404,311
Pittsburgh	351,075	409,747
San Antonio	206,298	204,677
San Diego	187,832	309,961

The estimate brings the total population of the United States, not including Alaska or the island possessions, up to 82,518,020, an increase of 1,294,889 over 1904, and 6,214,626 since the regular census of 1900.

The population of Missouri is estimated at 3,529,465, and in 1904 it was 3,277,657.

BABY SERIOUSLY BITTEN BY RAT

The 4-months-old daughter of Otto Her-tel of 2916 Gamble street was badly bitten by a rat while it slept in a crib beside the bed of its parents at 2 a. m. Wednesday.

Fifteen wounds about the head were inflicted, and the child's condition is serious. It is believed the rat crawled into the crib by means of a blanket which was hung about the crib to protect the child from a draft.

Lonely, With Sweetheart Gone, Youth Determined to Die

William Carmen, Wrote Letter to Girl He Had Just Bidden Good-Bye, and Laid Down With Gas Escaping, but Was Resuscitated.

After writing a letter to his sweetheart, whom he had bidden good-by but a few hours before, William Carmen, Tuesday night, suddenly determined upon suicide.

He addressed, sealed and stamped the letter, put it on a table in his room at 1103 Tyler street, tightly closed the door and laid down. He was found unconscious at 1 a. m. Wednesday by another roomer, who detected the odor of the gas and broke into the room. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he is recovering.

Carmen says he knows of no reason why he should have tried to kill himself. He obeyed a sudden impulse, he says, and after reaching the decision does not remember what happened.

Carmen is a country boy, reared near Quincy, Ill. He is 22 years old. A few months since he went to a business college in Quincy to learn stenography. There he met Miss Anna Ridge, 18 years old, of a well-known family in Shelbyville. Miss Ridge was also learning stenography. He fell in love with her and when Miss Ridge came to St. Louis to get a position Carmen followed. Miss Ridge lived at 1814 Washington avenue, and she and Carmen frequently met. Tuesday her grandfather came from Shelbyville to take her back home.

She notified Carmen, who went to Union Station with her. He says there was no quarrel, and he supposes the feeling of loneliness that came over him after she had gone was what prompted his attempt at self-destruction.

ST. LOUIS, MECCA FOR PICKPOCKETS

The police say that a mass of pickpockets and other dishonest folk are coming into St. Louis, part of them drawn by the opening of the racetracks, part on their way to the Portland fair, and part going to meet and follow President Roosevelt's party and work the crowds.

They have been arriving for nearly a week and the detectives have been keeping a keen watch for them.

Since Sunday ten men have been arrested who are alleged to have police records. Fred Goebel was arrested on a street car at Sarah street and McPherson avenue. He is said to have been here for some time.

Dick Wilson, who is being held, is said to be a "booster" or "dip" for a "dip." In other words he is said to be a pickpocket's partner, one who bumps against persons in a crowd and attracts their attention while the pickpocket gets in his work. He is from Cleveland.

Other arrested and records attributed to them are as follows: Billy Mack, pickpocket, from San Francisco; James S. Ryan, pickpocket, Chicago; George, alias Dutch, Bradley, pickpocket, New York; William G. alias "Duck," Moffett, sneak thief, just out of Chester Penitentiary; Eugene Ridgeway, robber, Hot Springs, who has been doing time in Kansas City; Al Curtis, thief, recently released from Jefferson City Penitentiary; Al Owens, burglar, recently released from Jefferson City Penitentiary; William Dewees, just out of Jefferson City Penitentiary, where he served five years.

With the exception of Ryan, who is said to have been caught at Union race track with his hand in a man's pocket, all of the men will be sent to Police Court on vacancy charges.

ST. LOUIS' GROWTH IN YEAR BUT 12,347

That Is Estimate of Census Bureau Director, Who Places Population at 636,973.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—St. Louis has gained only 12,347 inhabitants during the past year, according to estimates just completed by Director North of the Census Bureau.

The population of St. Louis at this time is estimated at 636,973, and it is given fourth place in the list of large cities. The population of St. Louis in 1904 is given at 624,626.

The estimates bring New York near the four-million mark and Chicago within 929 of the two-million mark. This is an increase of 461,885 for New York, since the 1900 census, and 1,190, and 321,175 for Chicago during the same period. Following are the estimates for the cities named:

New York	3,884,118	3,802,997
Chicago	1,982,313	1,860,759
Philadelphia	1,232,339	1,167,062

THE MAYOR OF CASTERBRIDGE.

A three-line paragraph in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, referring to the Mayor of Steelville, Mo., contained this statement: "Thomas Hardy wrote a powerful novel around the Mayor of Stockbridge, who was a man with a past."

Within a short time after the paper had reached the street, the editor's telephone bell rang and a voice said: "In the last paragraph on the first column of the editorial page is a reference to the Mayor of Stockbridge in a novel written by Thomas Hardy. It was not the Mayor of Stockbridge, but the Mayor of Casterbridge. I know, because I have just finished the novel."

The voice was right. The Mayor of Casterbridge was the titular character of Hardy's novel. The learned editorial writer who wrote the paragraph was betrayed into error by trusting to his usually accurate memory. The incident is interesting, for several reasons:

1. It shows the value of accuracy. The best-trained memory occasionally goes astray.
2. It exhibits the progress of invention. By means of the telephone, improved printing presses and processes and the rapid distribution of newspapers, made possible by new modes of conveyance, the error was corrected in the next edition of the Post-Dispatch and the danger of misleading thousands of readers was avoided.
3. It was an exposition of modern newspaper publicity. The pages of the great newspapers are carefully and intelligently read by thousands. Nothing escapes attention. No mistake or inaccuracy passes undetected. The reading public is argued and is equipped with the lore of libraries. Every experienced journalist knows that accuracy is the supreme law of newspaper making.

Nemesis pursued the Mayor of Casterbridge on account of his mistake. It pursues the newspaper men who make mistakes, but having made all possible amends for the slip of memory with regard to the name of the unhappy Mayor's town, the Post-Dispatch indulges the hope that its punishment ended with the rebuke of the man at the telephone, who had just finished reading the novel.

"The Republican party," says Rev. W. B. Floyd, "was born immaculate, free from sin, and so is not in need of reformation." "Amen," says Gas Addicks. "It's not irony, either."

HERE COMES MORE TROUBLE.

Even Uncle Sam takes cognizance of the tipping custom. In making out a prospective list of personal expenses for the members of Secretary Taft's junketing party to the Philippines, China and Japan, he includes six items concerning tips, namely: "Tips en route to San Francisco, $5; tips to table steward on steamer, $5; tips to cabin boy, who is also bath steward, $5; and the same returning; total, $30."

"But," says Uncle Sam in a footnote under these items, "for Chinese boys one-half of this amount is sufficient." This makes a sort of international affair of the matter at once. It intensifies the spirit of the ancient struggle between the white man and the Chinaman. Uncle Sam may intend no harm in this connection, but before making such a discrimination he should have recalled the sad fate which overtook the misguided Mongolian with whom Bret Harte and Bill Nye played euchre:

Then I looked up at Nye,
And he gazed upon me;
And he rose with a sigh,
And he said, "Can this be?
We are ruined by Chinese cheap labor!"
And he went for that heathen Chinese.

In the language of Gloomy Gus, Uncle Sam is "ringing up trouble."

Is hangman's day a legal holiday in Missouri, where executions are supposed to be private? The private executions appear to draw as large a crowd to towns as if they were public.

MR. CARNEGIE ON SUCCESS.

In his latest book, "The Life of James Watt," Mr. Carnegie finds two sources of success—Scottish birth and poverty. If a man possesses both these blessings he cannot fail. Courtesy requires that we grant the virtue of Scottish birth, but is poverty always a stimulant? Mr. Carnegie dwells upon the "something in poverty that compels exertion" and contrasts it with "the usual effect of the heritage of milliondom upon the sons of millionaires."

There is something too much of this laudation of poverty by men who have escaped from it. A man succeeds because success is in him. Conditions may alter the direction of his energy and perhaps impart a special form to his success, but the man works from an inner impulse not from external coercion.

Sidney Smith once puzzled the company by this conundrum: "Why do white sheep absorb more of the sun's heat than black sheep?" After several learned hypotheses had been advanced and rejected he answered, "because there are more of them."

In like manner we may ask, "Why does success attend more frequently on the efforts of the poor man's son than on the rich man's son?" Answer, "Because there is more of him." Not all poor boys are ambitious and persevering; not all rich boys are idle and pleasure loving. In both classes there are aspiring spirits who are bound to succeed. Poverty does confer an advantage at the start by saving the youth from sluggishness; but riches may offer opportunities never open to the poor. So far as success in life is concerned, there is not much to choose. Sidney Smith's great law prevails.

The President and the Congress will be puzzled to know just where the business men of St. Louis stand upon the question of empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate railroad rates. The Business Men's League has decided against the President's railroad regulating program and has authorized President Walbridge to send a committee of three to oppose it before the Senate; the ground of the League's opposition is that a general disturbance of rates which would injure the trade of St. Louis would follow the proposed legislation. On the other hand, the Merchants' Exchange has approved the President's plan on the ground that it is necessary to enable shippers to get justice from the railroads. Railroad influence, of course, is to some extent responsible for the disagreement of business organizations all over the country on the question at issue and then there are shippers who get more than justice from the railroads and want to retain their advantage, and those who get less and want more. This difference is the original cause of the agitation of the subject.

THE PRESIDENT IN CHICAGO.

The intelligence that "the authorities of Chicago are in a flutter of apprehension lest President Roosevelt be made the very center of a strike riot" does not produce a favorable impression of their energy and efficiency.

In consequence of this flutter of apprehension the President will be escorted through the streets by three troops of United States cavalry, 50 secret service men will surround him, and whenever he stirs out of doors mounted police will accompany him.

Such conditions excite no surprise when the Russian Czar rides in St. Petersburg or Warsaw. We are accustomed to think of possible violence under a government of "despotism tempered by assassination." But it is new in America and we do not like it.

Chicago has been in an uproar for several weeks and the authorities appear to be unable or unwilling to enforce law and order. A private quarrel has been allowed to disturb the peace of the city and breed public violence. The Mayor has appeared in the role of diplomat to negotiate a peace between the parties to the quarrel, but events go to prove that he has not efficiently performed his functions as executive and keeper of the peace.

Such a condition is un-American, disgraceful, abhorrent. If the President of the United States cannot travel without extraordinary precautions against violence we cannot claim superiority over Russia. A heavy responsibility rests upon the Mayor and Chief of Police of Chicago. They cannot escape the indignation censures of the entire country if the President's visit is marred by any disagreeable incident growing out of the strike. And if violence in any degree is offered they will have to face public wrath untempered by any consideration for the difficulties of the situation. There is plenty of force to back up the law. Diplomatic caution will not be accepted as an excuse if it results in consequences which might have been averted by the energetic performance of executive duty.

Goldfield and Other Nevada Camps

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

For the benefit of those who intend to go there I wish to say that there are good mines and prospects in Goldfield, Bullfrog and other camps. They all belong to somebody and nobody can make money by watching someone else taking it out of the ground. Some of the prospects will develop into mines, which ones and how many nobody can tell. All the mines and prospects are held at big figures. Losses may be obtained on small pieces of ground that do not show any ore at an expense of $250 to $300 per month. Some stock is sold of property that has no ore; it may be struck, or not.

There are not many men employed in the mines at present. The population of Goldfield is large enough to supply the demand for labor for some time to come. Business, professions and trades are overworked and nobody ought to come here expecting to get work.

There will be new mines discovered in many places, but it is expensive to go out and find them. Burros cost $20, horses and mules more, and a prospector's outfit can not be bought for less than $250 or $300. Pasture land is high. Hay in Bullfrog costs 60 per pound; barley, 100 per pound, and everything in proportion.

Only those who are prepared to meet and overcome these difficulties ought to come here at the present time. A. H. Goldfield, Nev.

A Sensible Enoch Arden.

It is refreshing—nay, more; it is gratifying—to run across an Enoch Arden who has sense enough to see that he is dead when he reappears on the scene, after years of unaccountable absence, to find his wife remarried, and who is gentlemanly enough to skip out and leave her and husband No. 2 in possession of the premises without an attempt to annoy her, put a head on him or kick holes in the furniture.

For this reason we salute Mr. Magnus Johnson of Kansas. Seven years ago he departed from Topeka, leaving his wife "sad and alone," like the girl in the song. Postage is just as cheap in Iowa and South Dakota, where he went, as is anywhere else in the country, yet never a line did he send to Mrs. Johnson. By a little cogent reasoning Mr. Johnson eventually concluded that, if Magnus wasn't dead, of a right he ought to be, and when another man walked up and commenced to pour sweet slugs into her ear she hearkened unto him and they were married.

The other day Mr. Johnson blew into Topeka and meandered around to the dear old home. Mrs. Johnson—that was stared at him coldly and did not even ask him to remove his hat. Mr. Johnson's first inclination was to be rude, but he thought better of it. "Serves me right," he finally said, and out he walked into the world again.

How admirable! Most of these impudent Enoch Ardens come flitting around when they are half forgotten, expecting everybody around the place to take on over them and to provide for a new baby or a pig automobile, when, as a matter of fact, the best they deserve is to be run in as suspicious characters. Mr. Johnson has set a new pace in the Enoch Arden line.

NO. 4.
Decalogue, Decapod, Decade, Etc.

In these days of reform the word "decalogue" or "decalog" is frequently used in the newspapers, as when it is stated of a bad man that he broke every part of the decalogue. Sunday school teachers know what decalogue means, but it is to be feared that many persons neither know the word nor its meaning.

There are many similar words, beginning with "deca," and it is very interesting to trace them to their source. "Deca" is Greek for ten. A decade, which has now come to mean a period of 10 years, originally meant any group or arrangement of tens.

The other part of the word decalogue is derived from the Greek word "logos," a word. Therefore, decalogue means 10 words—in this case the 10 words of command, said to have been delivered by the Divine Power to Moses on the Mountain of Sinai.

In the French metric system, deca is largely used. Decametre, a length of 10 metres; decagram, a weight of 10 grams; decilitre, a measure of 10 litres, etc.

Then there is our old friend the crab and his cousin the lobster. Naturalists call these creatures decapoda, from deca, ten, and pod, foot. They are said to have 10 legs, though if you count them you may doubt this, until you are told that the first pair are "usually developed into pincers." As many crabs and lobsters lose a "nipper," the decapod classification is only for scientific purposes.

A decastich, in poetry is a 10-line poem, "stich" meaning verse.

In architecture we come across a decastyle, which means a part of a building having 10 columns or pillars, style meaning pillar.

And in literature there is the decameron, formerly meaning any book of 10 parts (deca, ten; meros, a part), but now applicable only to Boccaccio's famous production.

There are several other odd words in which "deca" plays its part, and you must learn to distinguish them from words beginning with the prefix de, such as decay, decanter, decapitate, etc., which have nothing to do with deca, but have quite another derivation. The accent and division of syllables indicate the difference, if you have no dictionary at hand.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.
Edward Frazier wins $500 in Hot Springs club and returns to the quietude of his home. Katherine Faber, who wishes to see him break the bank, loses $1000 in a vain fight with fortune. Katherine's brother, Oliver, her cousin, Margaret Oswald, and the latter's father, Henry Oswald, accompany them. At Hot Springs they go for a ride up East Mountain to see the sun. Frazier takes Katherine to a rocky, precipitous point, where they see the sun emerge from a bunch of fog. Her horse becomes frightened and falls over the verge.

CHAPTER III.

A Strange Woman.

FRAZIER'S horse backed suddenly from the edge of the rock and Frazier wrenched at the arm of the girl, who, cool in the face of danger, had kicked the stirrups free and, as her horse fell, threw herself toward the man. The horse fell with a thunderous crash into the trees that grew on the precipitous mountain side, squealing in terror.

The wrench on Katherine's arm had saved her at the cost of dislodging her shoulder and when the other came up she was lying on a bench provided by the Government for sightseers and Frazier was bending over her unconscious form.

She opened her eyes when Oliver dashed water, scooped in his hat from a mountain rill, into her face and saw a ring of white faces. She moaned in anguish because of the injured shoulder.

Frazier was telling Oswald how the accident occurred.

"We were looking at the sunrise when a bird in the thicket frightened her horse."

"Edward," she called. She had never used that name before.

He hastened to her side.

"You saved my life," she said.

He looked at her silently and after a space of burning pain she went on:

"What were you telling me when it happened?"

"That I love you."

She smiled, in spite of her pain, and, closing her eyes, fought with the faintness that threatened consciousness.

Margaret wrung her hands and Oliver distractedly called on his companions to tell him what he might do to save his sister.

"Shut up," growled Oswald. "She'll be all right as soon as we get her down to a doctor. Go down to the hotel and get one of those long mountain wagons."

Before Oliver could mount Frazier was on his horse and away down the road.

Katherine opened her eyes and called "Edward!"

"He has gone for a carriage, dear," said Margaret. "Oh, I wish I could do something for you."

"I want Edward," Katherine said petulantly and then consciousness faded.

They stood about her helplessly waiting, disregarding the horse that, torn and broken, creaked in almost human tone for succor.

The sun warmed the pines about them and the air was perfumed with their balsam. Birds fluttered fearlessly about them and early wanderers in the woods gazed at the group from the paths.

"Will he never come?" questioned Oliver in his anxiety, and it seemed to them that hours passed before they heard the thud of Frazier's horse's hoofs and the rattle of the mountain wagon. He had stormed a stable and gotten the wagon in an incredibly short time.

They tossed out the seats recklessly and laid the unconscious girl on a bed of blankets. Then, very gently, they drove down the mountain, Frazier and Oswald riding by the side of the wagon.

Before the hotel was hardly astir Katherine was in her room under the care of a physician.

"A bad dislocation," he said, and installed nurses to tend her, excluding the friends who had lost the savor of their adventures and had no heart for hope.

Siddons heard a version of the night and the disaster on the mountain top. Many parties had gone up to see men rescue the horse with ropes and tackle. Two legs were broken and a soldier shot the poor brute, surrounded by a great throng of curious folk. Siddons was there and heard the talk of those who thought they knew the story.

At the hotel he was known to be an intimate friend of all persons involved in the adventure, and women, eager for gossip, applied to him for details. He related what he had learned and the exaggerations grew.

It was long past noon when Frazier came downstairs and Siddons eagerly buttonholed him.

"By George, Ed," he cried, "I'm glad to see Oliver didn't mark you. What did you fight about? The hotel is full of the story and everybody has been to me for the facts. They say Katherine will be a cripple for life."

Frazier turned away from him in disgust, but Siddons followed, voluble and insistent.

"Did Oswald get mixed in it? Neither he nor Margaret have been down today. I sent up a card, but the boy couldn't get past his man."

"Siddons," said Frazier, sternly, "I wish you weren't such an ass. You are worse than a bulletin board. You gossip like an old maid. What happened was an accident. There was no fight. Miss Faber was injured by a fall from her horse up on the mountain. Her left shoulder is dislocated. Oliver is, as he has always been, my closest friend."

"But the row over in the Southern Club?"

"There was no row. We left the club and went to ride up the mountain."

"To fight it out?"

"Nonsense. Miss Faber and Miss Oswald and Mr. Oswald went with us. You picked up a lot of hotel lies such as a gentleman would never hear, or hearing, would forget instantly."

"I only wanted to know the truth so that I could stop gossip," said Siddons, sulkily. "The truth is that we put you to bed drunk and disorderly and went back to the roulette and lost some money which belonged to us, and at daylight went up the mountain, where Miss Faber met with an accident. Let that suffice for you, and keep away from me for a few days or I may kick you."

Mrs. Faith, whose husband amassed much money by buying and selling partially used railway tickets, attacked Frazier more adroitly.

Large, blond and showy, Madge Faith heightened her charms by wearing on all occasions gowns fashioned by dressmakers to stage beauties. Her morning costumes shamed the lilies; her afternoon toilettes would win the eye that might look on birds of paradise, while in the evening only theatrical version of Cleopatra and Semiramis might vie with her.

She was oriental in manner, languorous, sultry. Gifted with no wit, incapable of conversation beyond small topics such as weather, dinner, dress and personal feelings of those about her, she attracted men, and Benjamin Faith, covering his wide abdomen with lightly clasped, pudgy hands, gazed upon her admiring train with satisfaction.

She waved Frazier to a seat beside her and won from him almost unconsciously, as might any woman, the story of the night and the misadventure of the morning.

"You saved her," she said, inferring what he did not tell. "Oh, it is fine to be a big, brave man; but, Mr. Frazier, it is finer to be the girl you have saved."

He flushed under her praise and the ardent look in her large blue eyes. She had seemed too ornate to him, too barbaric; but now he possessed no sense of her excess. How beautiful she was, he thought, and how marvelous that Faith, gross and unlovely in form, face and mind, should own this wonderful creature. And own her Faith did; she was a possession as veritably as were the diamonds with which he decked her.

Faith had other possessions, one being stock in a gambling club, and he saw much profit that might come to him through this young man and his friends, the Fabers and Oswalds. Frazier's wealth was an unknown quantity, but Oliver Frazier's was unlimited, and Frazier sat in its glory.

All afternoon Frazier sat in the shadow of the vines on the porch and kept Mrs. Faith awake with tales of his adventures. He was irritated with himself at times when he reflected that the personal pronoun was continually dominating his narratives, but the praise of the luxurious, languorous woman never failed to wipe out the sense of absurd egotism.

She was ever ready with little phrases that exalted him, and when she went away to dress for dinner he missed her so much the sunlight sifting through the vines was dull and the chattering people about him maddeningly insane.

Then he remembered Katherine. Siddons drove her out of his mind and Mrs. Faith had kept her out. He felt disloyal and ashamed.

At her door the nurse said she was sleeping peacefully and he left a message of concern. He sent flowers to emphasize his message and sought Oliver that they might talk of her.

In the Faith apartments a fat man in pajamas and the languorous beauty, pausing in a state of dishevelment, were discussing Frazier.

"String him good," said Faith. "He makes eyes at you, yes; but what do I care. Every man looks like that when they see you dressed so fine. You look like a picture and they can't keep their eyes away from you."

"He ain't like the others, Ben," said the woman, softly. "Somehow, I don't care for the others that I string along for you, but Mr. Frazier is sorry. I don't know. I don't like it, Ben."

"Well, you do as I tell you. Do you want that necklace at King's or don't you?"

Her eyes sparkled. "You will buy that for me? Yes, I will do anything you ask if you buy that necklace. When will you give it to me. Send for it now."

"All right, and you will wear that dull-green gown of Doucet's—yes?"

He went over the detail of her gowning, showing an expert knowledge of this feminine branch of learning. It had been a deep study with him, for along its line lay the steps to great profit. He was not simply a ticket broker, but one equipped to make money in any business in which he might engage.

"You must make him teach you to play the wheel. This is a fine night and his friends won't be around to interfere."

She laughed. "I always want to learn roulette, ain't it, Ben?"

A Rip Van Winkle Anecdote.

There is in the village of Catskill a Rip Van Winkle Club. The society did me the honor to invite me to act the character in their town. I accepted, and when I arrived was met by the worthy president and other members of the club, among whom was young Nicholas Vedder, who claimed to be a direct descendant of the original "old Nick." . . . I was taking a cup of tea at the table in the hotel when I was attracted to the colored waiter, who was giving a graphic and detailed account of this legend of the Catskill mountains to one of the boarders who sat nearly opposite to me.

"Yes, sah," he continued, "Rip went up into de mountains, slep' for 20 years, and when he come back hyar in dis berry town his own folks didn't know him."

"Why," said the listener, "you don't believe the story's true?"

"True? Ob course it is! why," pointing at me, "dat's de man."—From "The Autobiography of Joseph Jefferson."

Return of the Crinoline.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.
Every now and then, ever since the crinoline of the fifties and sixties of the last century disappeared into the limbo of lost fashions, a mysterious whisper runs round the world of woman to the effect that crinolines are "coming in" again. It has long been the fashion to regard those curious cages as too unspeakably ugly to have any real chance of resurrection. Nevertheless, the rumor is again going about that they are to be imposed once more upon the female form divine.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has been speaking her mind thereupon, as was only to be expected, for the great actress is second only to the German Emperor in her capacity for enunciating an opinion upon anything and everything under the sun. Sarah does not love crinoline, nor does Celine Chaudmont, who goes so far as to call it a "disorganizer of social life." On the other hand, Mile. Sorel rather likes it, and, as to its being ugly, she remarks with some truth that "there are no ugly fashions for those who know how to wear them."

Threw them out of his store

"I have discovered that it never pays to try to work off old stale, impure goods on my customers, at any price. It costs more than it comes to every time, as I have proven conclusively to my own satisfaction."

"I used to keep about forty 'leven different kinds of cereal foods in stock—before I learned better—and they nearly all would grow old and stale and lose their freshness and become unfit for use before I could dispose of them."

"I finally became disgusted and made a bonfire and dumped the whole business into it and got rid of it."

"There was one kind that I didn't burn up, however, and that was EGG-O-SEE. I never had any trouble in getting rid of that, as it is a favorite with all my customers. They don't let it stay on my shelves long enough to become stale, so it is always fresh and pure. I never had a customer that started in on EGG-O-SEE who did not keep on using it and influence his friends to buy it. As a consequence, my sales of EGG-O-SEE alone are more than double the combined sales of all the brands I used to carry. All my customers without exception say that it is the best and most delicious cereal food ever made, and I feel that it must be true since the evidence is all one way."

From the Dallas News.

Can a woman in full evening dress laugh in her sleeve?
